Join Fannie & Freddie residents from around the country to take back the people's bank OccupyOurHomes on September 25, 2012

Actions on Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac to win principal reduction, a halt to all evictions and slum conditions, right to rent, and transfer of vacant properties to communities not investors.

SEPTEMBER 27, THURSDAY, 8:30am
1525 Newton St, Washington DC
(St. Stephens Episcopal Church)

Meet at the church and caravan to Fannie Mae's national headquarters, Freddie Mac's national headquarters and a surprise stop at end!

For more information contact: Tony at tony@righttothecity.org, 404.593.5227

Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac are 80% taxpayer owned but are supporting Wall Street not Main Street. "The People's Banks" are kicking more people out of their homes than any other bank in the country. And then they sell those homes to investors for less than what we offered!

People are fighting back! During the week of action (Sept 10-14), hundreds of Fannie and Freddie residents and fighters stormed the banks' regional headquarters in Chicago, Atlanta, New York and Los Angeles. Then, Fannie for the first time ever did an about face and agreed to principal reduction in California! This is a victory and one step forward. We need justice across the country and all our demands met. Join the Fannie/Freddie 99 in DC on Sept 27!

Protest Outside DeMarco's Home Thursday, Hundreds Will Storm Fannie Mae National HQ Over Foreclosure Crisis

Former Homeowners, Residents of Foreclosed Buildings, and Families from 6 States Plan Protest in DC Thursday, September 27th

 Families affected by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac foreclosures and housing experts are available for interviews. To schedule, contact Molly Haigh at molly@fitzgibbonmedia.com. ***

WASHINGTON, DC- – On Thursday, September 27th, hundreds of residents of foreclosed buildings, homeowners, and families from across the country will converge on FHFA Acting Director Ed DeMarco's Silver Spring home and the national Fannie Mae headquarters in response to the foreclosure crisis. The protesters, calling themselves the Fannie Freddie 99 fighters, will demand an end to Fannie/Freddie evictions and concrete solutions to keep people in their homes. Several will risk arrest by storming Fannie Mae's headquarters.

Who: 150 protesters, including homeowners unfairly denied loan modifications, tenants improperly denied relocation benefits, and families from 5 states. Partners include Right to the City Alliance, Occupy Our Homes, Home Defenders League, Chicago Anti-Eviction Network, Mexico Solidarity Network, City Life/Vida Urbana, Springfield No One Leaves, DARE, Causa Justa/Just Cause, and many more. For a full list, see: <http://wearethefanniefreddie99.tumblr.com/about>

What: Protest outside Fannie Mae HQ, with numerous protesters planning to risk arrest by storming the building. The event will be followed by hundreds of protesters showing up outside the home of FHFA Acting Director Ed DeMarco's home to deliver him a pink slip. Demands include: properly considering homeowners for permanent affordable loan modifications, stopping the denying of legally-required relocation benefits to tenants living in foreclosed buildings, offering foreclosed properties to former owners and/or local non-profits at value rather than selling to hedge funds, and firing FHFA Director Ed DeMarco, who does not support principle reduction.

When and Where: Thursday September 27th

- 10:15am: Action at Fannie Mae headquarters, 3900 Wisconsin Ave, Washington DC.
- 4:30pm: Protesters deliver a pink slip to Ed DeMarco's house, 713 Winhall Way, Silver Springs MD.

* VISUALS: Protesters risking arrest at Fannie Mae HQ, banner and signs that reads "Take Back the People's Bank," large poster of demands, giant list of 99 stories and demands of the Fannie Freddie 99. affected residents of the Fannie Freddie foreclosures and evictions will be adorned with their stories. **

This protest is part of a national month of action, with events in 5 major cities: LA, Chicago, Atlanta, NYC, and culminating with Thursday's event in Washington, DC. Families affected by the recent flood of foreclosures and foreclosure related evictions will demand immediate action from Fannie and Freddie officials and President Obama, who has the power to fire FHFA Director Ed Demarco. Demarco has been notably against principle reduction, which would keep people in their homes.

The Take Back the People's Bank Campaign is convened by four national alliances: Right to the City, the Home Defenders League, Occupy Our Homes, and Alliance for a Just Society. Other key organizations who have bottom-lined the week of actions include Mexico Solidarity Network, Chicago Anti-Eviction Network and the Moratorium Now Coalition. Subject: Schedule Announced for Occupy DC's One-Year Anniversary; Bank of America Highlighted for 2 October
Importance: High

Good morning.

With all the Occupy DC leaders back home, it appears some concrete plans have materialized for the one-year anniversary. Our day for action is Tuesday, 2 October. I think there should be more participation that the last attempt against us; they seemed pretty excited... The schedule is as follows:

ROCCUPY - Occupy DC welcomes the new year!
ROCCUPY FESTIVAL - SHUT DOWN K STREET - OCCUPY DC STRIKES BACK, WEEK OF RESISTANCE

Join Occupy DC to celebrate our one-year anniversary! Occupy DC had one of the longest-running occupations of a major US city, and it's time for a week of fun and activism to celebrate our successes, usher in a new year for the 99%, and call for system change.

ROCCUPY FESTIVAL - Sat 9/29, Sun 9/30

Two days of plays, music, art, political discussions, and general assemblies in Freedom Plaza, because Occupy loves you. Family-friendly, affirmative, and an example of what the 99% wants more of in the world. Panel discussions to discuss the Occupy movement and the election, kid-friendly games, comedy, meet-and-greet with other organizations, music performances, the Occuplay and other special performances.

OCCUPY DC STRIKES BACK - WEEK OF RESISTANCE - Tues 10/2 - Sun 10/7

These are themed days of action in resistance to the system and in solidarity with the 99%. Individual, autonomous affinity groups welcome to plan whatever inspires them.

10/1 - SHUT DOWN K STREET day of action. (Joel Northam, one of the leaders, advised that they plan to conduct a day-long blockade, possibly with furniture items. Since there will be a definite collaboration with the DC Anarchist Alliance, there may even be some other tricks up their sleeve.)

10/2 - Bank/economic day of action. Meet 7 AM at Bank of America, Pennsylvania & 15th St NW, to "foreclose" a bank. Meet 1 PM at same location for march to deliver "bailout money" to social services, schools, and the people.

10/3 - Lobbyists day of action. A day to stick it to the notorious lobbyists, one-percenters, and Citizens-United Super PAC campaign donors who are undermining democracy and imperiling our system.

10/4 - 99% solidarity day of action. Visiting our 99% friends in shows of solidarity, and uniting together against the oppression of the 1%.

10/5 - Earth, sustainability, and energy day of action. A day of opposing industrial agriculture, GMOs, hydro-fracking, pollution, oil, coal, and other dirty energy, and working toward a healthy, sustainable planet.

10/6 - OCCUPY DC FREEDOM PLAZA ANNIVERSARY, a day for calling for an end to wars and militarism. The Occupy DC Freedom Plaza location began on the anniversary of our invasion of Afghanistan on October 6, 2001. This October 6, join Occupy DC to oppose war and militarism, and call for US troops out of Afghanistan now!

10/7 - Occupy Democracy day of action. A day for calling for a true democracy, one month prior to Election Day. Meet 5 PM in McPherson Square for a general assembly to display what a real, egalitarian, horizontal democracy might look like!

A year ago, on October 1, 2011, ecstatic that the 99% had begun occupying Wall Street, brave activists here in Washington DC began occupying McPherson Square on K Street, the corridor where corporate lobbyists, bankers, and the 1% come to wield their power. On October 6, more fearless members of the 99% began occupying Freedom Plaza in downtown DC, about ten blocks to the south. Two active camps were established with several hundred occupiers between the two of them. They survived the snow and rain of winter and persecution from the police, until the police violently raided the camps in the second week of February 2012.

There are more reasons than ever to occupy -- to dwell in the places where the 1% do their corrupt dealings, and refuse to leave. Join the 99% as we reclaim our democracy, our future, our world.

For more information on the Occupy DC Week of Resistance, visit www.occupydc.org or call 202-797-4940.

On another note, the Occupy Our Homes action last week against our Home Loan office generated quite a buzz online. Occupy DC posted a new announcement calling for advocacy to keep the Reverend in his home. They provide the number to call that Home Loan office (202-797-4940) and urge everyone to call on his behalf. There is also an ongoing petition. Since the Bank reached out, the push is now more aggressive...
